SHARK BITS

There are more than 350 different kinds of SHARKS.

There are countless number of CARD SHARKS.

You are 1,000 times more likely to drown in the sea than you are to be bitten by a SHARK.

If you are a better than average card player, you are a CARD SHARK.

SHARKS are more related to fish like the stingray, than fish like the barracuda.

A CARD SHARK is an "expert card gambler" and could be a relative of yours.

The term CARD SHARK was developed in the 17th century and was derived from the word "Shirk[er]" meaning "sharp".

A SHARK can hear a fish in the water from more than a mile away.

SHARKS can smell one drop of blood in a million drops of water.

The chance of being killed by a SHARK is one in 300 million. The chance of being killed by airplane parts falling from the sky is one in 10 million.

About 100 people in the world are bitten by SHARKS each year. Of these, five to ten die.

CARD SHARKS are common characters in caper films, since the questionable legality of their hobby also plays well with that of their occupation.

Notable examples of such films are:

- The Lady Eve (1941)
- The Cincinnati Kid (1965)
- The Sting (1973)
- Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels (1998)
- The Prestige (2006)
- Rounders (1998)
- Shade (2003)
- 21 (2008)
- The Princess and the Frog (2010)
